Instagram Star Indyamarie

Indyamarie Jean is a Instagram star, model, stylist and accessories designer. She has been hacked once and had to start all over again bur still she has over 650 k followers on Instagram. Thousands of people are waiting for new posts of her day after day. We interviewed the tattooed loner.

Confidence, Success and Self Love

FIV: With over 600k you are a very successful influencer. When did your career get started and where did you take the confidence and creativity from?

Well firstly I'd like to say that my career and my following are somewhat separate . I've had more than 600k before being hacked , so the following is not new to me . I do however believe that I am an influencer in so many young people's lives . I started modeling around 16 and built my brand from there . I wasn't always this confident successful model though , it took me years to build that confidence and self love .

FIV: You are not only a blogger but also a jewelry designer. Would you tell us when and how did you start designing jewelry? When did you create your own label?

My accessory line is one of the biggest parts of my whole brand in itself . It was just based off momentum I had from my supporters loving my personal jewelry that I would wear , and I took that positive response and turned it into an entire line .

FIV: How does the implementation of your designs work? Do you do everything yourself or do you get help from a trustworthy team?

At first it was all me , no help , no outside sources , and I was okay with that . However , the more work , the more help I needed . I never wanted to delegate in the past because I don't trust a lot of people , especially to know how to help me with my brand , but now knowing I need extra help , there are a few individuals behind me , helping me along the way .

FIV: You are always one step ahead when it comes to trends. What is your trend for 2017?

In this upcoming year I'm focusing on pants and shoes . It might sound vague but in time you will notice what I mean . Being a stylist gives me so much room for individuality , i love creating new trends and looks .

FIV: Which jewelry pieces should every woman have in her treasure box? What are your personal must-haves?

Every woman should have at least one favorite ring and one favorite necklace . When you have nothing else to add to an outfit and you can't figure out what's missing , I guarantee it's most likely accessories .

Hawaiian

Let the Energy be Natural

FIV: We saw you have a lot of tattoos. When did you start with it and what do they mean?

My first tattoo was when I was 15 years old , it was for my birthday . I'll admit when I was younger , I may have gotten some tattoos that aren't as meaningful as my most recents but I love them all . I have quite a few , and they each represent something about my life and my story . Each tattoo is art to me . I draw them all myself .

FIV: As a model and blogger you are always travelling. What are your 3 must-have travelling essentials?

Hand Sanitizer , Head phones and water ! I need to stay clean , hydrated and my mind clear of all noises going around me .

FIV: What was the most beautiful place you ever been to?

I have a lot more traveling to do , but so far it's Maui . I love the people , the energy is amazing and you can't beat the views .

FIV: Do you get support from your family and friends with your career?

I'm a loner , including family . Never had a lot of friends , and I grew up without family being around to raise me and help me become an adult . I really do everything on my own , I'm my biggest supporter .

„Luck is not real to me“

FIV: You as a know-Influencer. Do you have a tip for any girls or boys who want to start a successful Blog/Instagram Channel?

Just to be themselves and let the energy be natural . When I was younger and super into followers and trying to get likes , it seemed forced and no one liked that . Just know that if people like you for you , they will follow you through anything .

FIV: What is more important for a popular blog and in general in your view: luck or discipline? Why?

Luck is not real to me , in some aspects . And I don‘t believe social media has any discipline at all . I would say the most important thing for any blog or influencers is genuine personality and positivity . You can go so far with those .

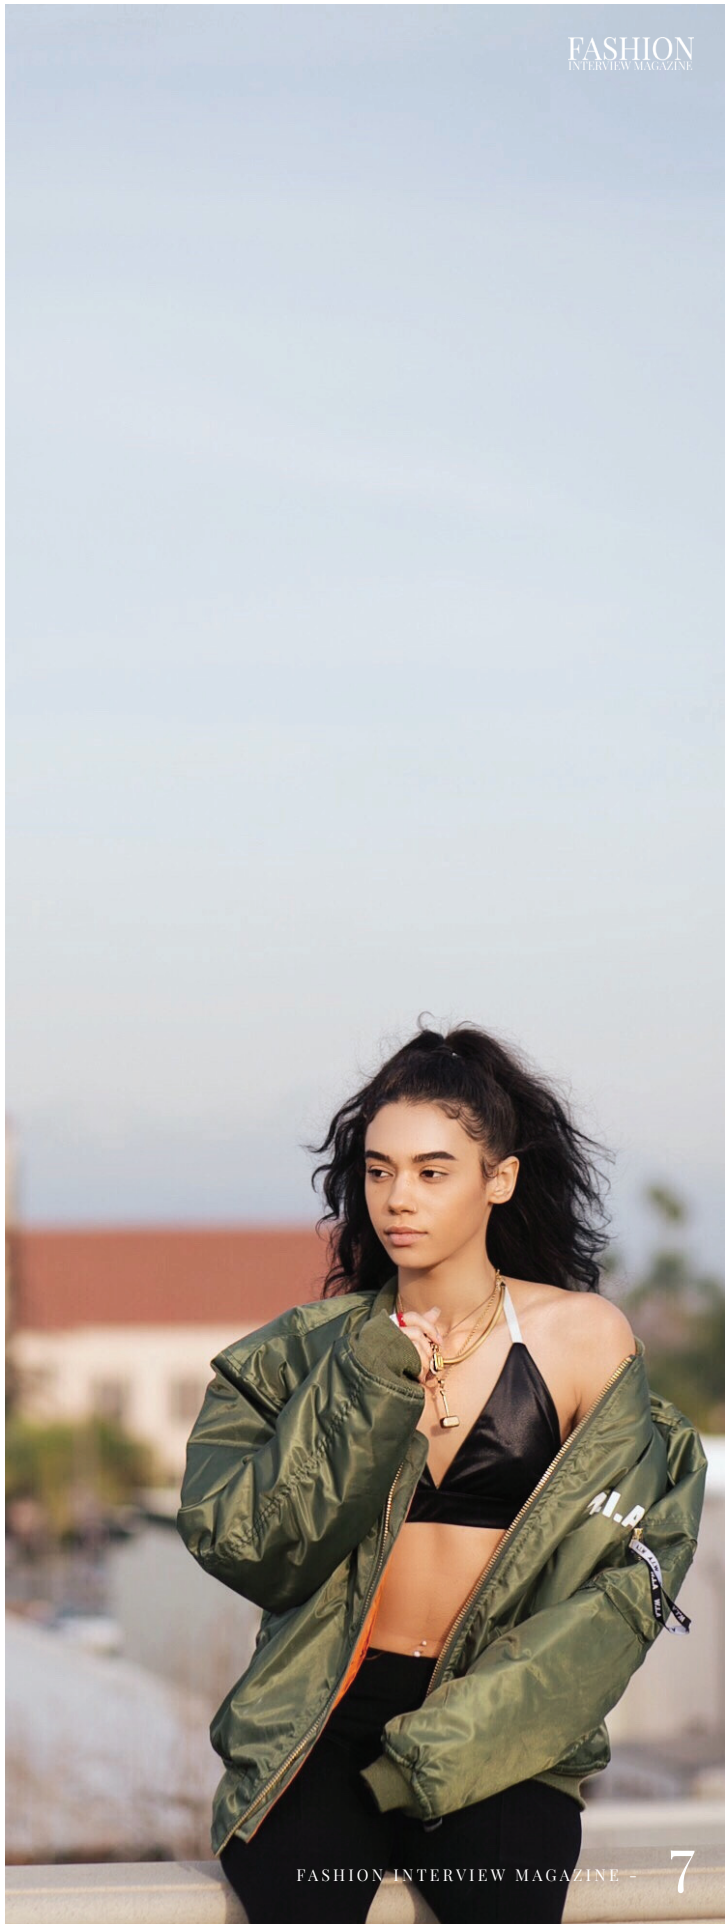

FIV: You already achieved a lot. What is your biggest dream for your future?

I want to travel and be happy . I tell everyone this , it‘s always the same . I want to see the world because there will be times when we can‘t . I want to be so happy that I no longer care about the small things that drive me crazy some days ...those are my biggest dreams . Everything else in between that , is just life itself.

Thank you Indya for the nice Interview.

ZOMBIE BOY!
Rick Genest

We met the a real Zombie - Rick Genest. He is the the person with the highest number of insects tattooed on the body. He has 176 insects tattooed on his arms, torso, back and head. We talked to the real life Zombie about his life on the streets of Montreal, his favorite food and his carrere. How he thinks his life will look like in 20 years? Have a look on the interview.

Growing up: Living as street kid

FIV: Hi Zombie Boy, could you tell us who invented your name?

Growing up, living as street kid, my comrades aliased me as ‚Zombie'. This was due to my couple of tattoos & macabre t-shirts/apparel I'd be fashioning, as well as the music and movies I'd be into. I had also previously survived a brain tumor operation; hence, the shoe fit like chocolate & peanut butter. Down the line, it was Bizarre Magazine that dubbed me as the Zombie Boy.

FIV: When asked what your profession is, what do you answer?

In a nutshell, my profession is Zombie Boy.
I started entertainment performance in freak-show as „the boy who ate worms" . I have since worked as a model and have done some acting. I am currently striving to make my way into music as the front man (lyricist/vocalist) of our currently under-construction band ‚Zombie Boy'.

FIV: How did your present day career begin? What were you doing before that?

As a teen, I was a squeegee-kid and doing odd jobs before getting into freak-show performing. Some people would want pictures, and so it was a modeling gig that interested Nicola Formichetti to scoop me up. It was shooting with Mugler and hand-in-glove shooting of Lady Gaga's ‚Born this Way' that trumped everything else I had previously done.

FIV: What do you particularly like about your job?

Sometime a photographer will use a snap that shows the obscure Zombie Boy character that I manifested for myself. Also, once in a blue moon, I get a gothic/horror gig alongside other misfit strangers in the strangest places.

My favourite tattoo is the one on my skin

FIV: It looks like there is no free space on your body for any other more tattoos but is there a part of your body that is not yet tattooed?

THE DEAD WALK

Yeah there's a little space left, but that's after-dark real-estate territory.

FIV: What would you say is your favorite tattoo?

My favourite tattoo is the one on my skin.

FIV: When and why did you start getting inked? Would you tell us something about your first tattoo and the story behind it?

I was 16 when I got my „Skull & crossbones" tattoo on my left shoulder. It represents „no rules & no master".

human flesh, and brains are a cultural delicacy

FIV: How do you picture your life in 20 years from now?

Logical reasoning leads me to believe that I will by then in-turn be the worm food.

FIV: Our special question: what does a zombie eat? What is your favorite food?

Zombies generally vice on human flesh, and brains are a cultural delicacy. Though if you ask me, worms are great for snacking and candy-corn everyday keeps the doctor away.

FIV: You lived on the streets of Montreal for a while. What would you say was the hardest part of this?

Trying to squat the harsh and unforgiving winter, with a dash of Police.

FIV: You have traveled a lot over the last few years. Many other people leave their hometown when they work in your business. What is so special about Montreal for you that you want to stay?

This is my home. The people and grew-up with and love are here. I know where my resources are, and familiarity is my comfort zone.

Thank you Zombie Boy for the great Interview.

Fulltime Blogger Emma Rose

Emma Rose is 27 years old and is a health, lifestyle, fitness, beauty and fashion blogger who is based in Sydney Australia but currently in L.A. She is the co owner of an Online Marketplace. She also works as an active ambassador for International health brands like ‚Skinny Bunny Tea' and ‚Protein World' and is now the face of Gym Shark in Australia. We talked to her about cheat meals, realtionships and her beuaty and fitness tricks.

Emma says feel good about myself

FIV: Over 519.000 people follow you and you fitness body pictures on Instagram. Would you tell us something about your fitness journey?

Sure! I started working out about 6 years ago now and its always been something that makes me feel good about myself. Its probably my favourite hobby now, my stress relief. Sometimes ill have 2-3 days off and i start getting grumpy. Its just life now, i love it.

FIV: Many people want to do sports but do not find the right motivation. Do you have a trick to motivate yourself? How do you motivate yourself, when you really do not want to work out?

I love group classes and the energy you take from other people! Its contagious and motivates me. I usually train with my partner or a girlfriend, always helps me to go if im going with someone.

FIV: On your Instagram you present you delicious looking cheat day meals. What is you all time favourite food on a cheat day?

Omg there are so many! But i love sugar. So something sweet. Or a burger or pizza. Wine is not counted as a cheat!

FIV:What are your top 5 beauty and fitness tricks?

Water and hot lemon in the morning. Try and drink a little before leaving the house.

Infared sauna once a week is must!

Cute new workout wear will get you to the gym i promise!

Train in the morning, you have more energy!

Eye and face masks 3 times a week

just be yourself and have fun

FIV: How many times a week do you work out and you have a schedule? If yes would you tell us something about it?

I try and do 4 F45 functional training classes or group training classes a week, including Soul cycle whilst i'm in LA and a hike or a walk or two. I try and do something active every day.

FIV: You appeared on Australias first season of 'The Bachelor'. In Germany you can watch season 7 now. What is your advice to all the girls who are a part of the show?

100% just be yourself and have fun with it. Its an amazing experience if you have the right mind frame. Don't get caught up with bitchy girl drama!

FIV: You are the co owner of online marketplace BuyMyClothes.com. Would you tell us a little bit about this shop? what do you as a co owner do there?

BuyMyClothes.com is an online marketplace similiar to EBAY, where can buy, sell or trade new and used fashion and accesorries. I co own it with a girlfriend of mine and its just really starting to take off in Australia! We have a bunch of amazing fashion bloggers on board using it. Its like my baby. I helped create the entire platform and im super proud of it.

Emma on Instagram
emmaroseofficial

FIV: You as a well known influencer probably travel a lot. What is your favorite spot you have ever been to? What was so special about it?

I went to Italy with my partner and it was amazing. Magical place! The food culture and people were all amazing. Im going to Greece this July which im super excited about.

FIV: Nowadays it feels like influencers run the world, they have their own brands, are fashion shows front row guest etc. What are your plans and goals for the future? Anything your followers can be excited about?

Yes! My new website and Youtube channel launched in the next 7 days so I will be blogging alot more, VLOGS, Q and A and hopefully alot more travel this year for work. I want to see more and really put myself out of my comfort zone.

Im an aussie girl at heart

FIV: What has been your biggest success so for in your opinion?

Im very grateful that i am able to work for myself on my own projects, I honestly think the dedication and motivation stemmed from high school and university. It taught me alot, I'm proud of where i've come from and what i have iv'e made all by my self.

FIV: You look really pretty on all of your pictures but when do you feel most beautiful?

Thank you! To be honest I feel most beautiful after a few hours in the sun and water. Fresh faced, bronzed and just happy! Im an aussie girl at heart, I just love being outdoors and the simple things in life.

FIV: Is it difficult in this business (regarding business trips etc.) to be in a relationship or friendship regarding loyalty, trust, distance, time etc.?

Obviously trust is really important. If you are on the same level as someone and you understand them and now days with life being so busy i don't think its that difficult. I mean you miss them and its not easy but in the end if its meant to be it will 100% make the relationship stronger.

Swedish Nomad
Fulltime Trawler

Alex, who is better known as ‚Swedish Nomad' on Instagram, is a passionated full-time traveller and blogger. He made travel into his business. We interviewed the Swedish Nomad and he told us what you need, to be a traveller blogger, why it is easier to fall in love on the road and what he wants to achieve in his life.

Innovative explorer with a neverending wanderlust

Fiv: Hello Alex, hope you are good. For everybody who does not know you till now, would you please introduce yourself.

Hi everyone, I'm Alex. You may know me as Swedish Nomad, and as you might be able to tell, I'm originally from Sweden. I might not be so typical Swedish though, as I don't live that ordinary Swedish everyday life. For the last 1,5 years, I've been traveling around the world with my girlfriend, and we made travel into our business. Some people refer to me as a digital nomad since I make my living through internet. But I would rather describe myself as an innovative explorer with a neverending wanderlust who loves to showcase the world through photography.

FIV: You are a full time traveller and my first question is which country/city do you call your home?

Sweden will always be my home, more specifically Helsingborg, and I'm very thankful for having the luck of being raised and born there. But since leaving Sweden to explore the world I have found quite a few places that I like. Gran Canaria was my first long-trip abroad and will always have a very special place in my heart and soul. Another place that I always feel welcomed and home is Greece. No matter where I go in Greece, it's always the same warm feelings that arise just as soon as I walk out of the airplane.

However, home is where your heart as, and it's not as much about the place as the people around you that makes you feel like home.

FIV: Why and when did you start traveling? What made you fall in love with it?

Ever since I was a little boy I have dreamt of traveling the world. My passion for it was awakened by National Geographic and various tv-shows about dinosaurs, nature and old temples. It was just so mesmerizing to see, so I always knew that I had to get out there and see it for myself. 2010 was the year when I left Sweden for the first time, but it wasn't until 2015 I decided to travel full-time.

I'm a curious adventurer. I want answers, I enjoy other cultures, and there is just so much out there. I want to go where others haven't been and tell stories, but also inspire others to explore and go beyond their comfort zone.

Travel, family and friend

FIV: As a full time traveller, we can imagine you are not home a lot. Do you have a family/ children at home. If yes how do you handle it?

I actually have the luck to travel full-time with my girlfriend, who shares my passion for traveling, animals and photography. That make things a lot easier, but of course I do miss my parents and my little brother Adam, who I wish I could spend more time with.

I try to talk with them as often as I can, but it's hard as we're traveling all the time, and on top of that we also need to update on social media and our blogs. But there's also a positive aspect of this. When I actually do travel back home to Sweden, the time spent is more valuable and appreciated.

FIV: Asides the basics (passport, ATM card, backpack), which 3 items are must-have things for you on your trip?

My Camera bag with camera, lenses and such. Other than being a necessity for my work, it's also one of my biggest passions and I would never travel without it.

Besides that I would never travel without my eye-mask for sleeping. Having my 7-8 hours of sleep is vital, and to be disturbed by light is definitely a big no-no.

On top of that I always bring a Spork, which gives me a fork, knife and a spoon, all in one. It's a handy travel gadget and very inexpensive, costing less than 2 dollars. It can save a lot of money since it enables you to buy food from supermarkets on the go, and not have to worry on how to eat it.

More about Alex

FIV: With over 40k followers you are a successful travel blogger and impress the people with your breathtaking pictures. Do you have any advice for one who would like to start a travel blog or any blog for that matter?

Enjoy writing or photography? go for it, and follow your passion. That will give you the best possible motivation. And if you're serious about blogging, make sure you see it as a business from day 1. If you do that, people will take you more seriously, thus giving you more opportunities and followers.

Love at first sight truly exist

FIV: Sometimes, we all know travelling is very stressful. Do you as an expert, have a trick for stressful situations?

Take a deep-breath, think about a person that inspires you and ask yourself „what would he/she do in this situation"?

Another good trick is to come prepared. Sure it's more fun to go with the flow, but if you take the time to read about your destination and other people's experiences you might notice things before they actually do happen, e.g common scams and such, which could be very stressful.

„My biggest success so far has been that I've found myself and my passion".

FIV: It looks like you travel since a long time and you might have met a lot of people from all over the world. Have you ever fallen in love on the roads? Tell me about it.

I actually met my girlfriend on the road, while I was working on Rhodes island in Greece. I was selling tickets for one of the clubs, and there she was, on the beach, and her smile instantly caught my attention. It was almost like in a movie, and if it were I'm sure the background music would be the famous song „happy together" by the turtles. Love at first sight truly exist. With that said, it's actually a lot easier to fall in love while traveling as you won't experience everyday problems in the same way.

FIV: Every country has its own culture and rituals, some countries has animals we never seen before. every country is special. Have you ever come face to face with some extra-ordinary experience? What was it ?

Yes, quite a few. One animal that was very special to meet was the tarsier, who lives only in a certain part of the Philippines. They are so small and super cute with their big eyes! The size of a tarsier is like a normal palm of a human.

FIV: You as a professional traveller, do you have some traveling hacks, which is generally not known by people?

Pack everything you think you need and remove half of it, or even better 2/3.

Another travel hack if you're not a morning person and like to visit famous landmarks. Go there after the tour groups have gone to the next stop.

Most tours begin between 9 and 11, and finish around 1-3 pm. If you go there after that time you're likely to avoid the biggest crowds But, of course the best thing is to go there by sunrise, as you'll have it to yourself.

FIV: Looks like you are very successful in what you do. What has been your biggest success in your opinion so far?

Few people know that the first time I picked up a camera was in November 2015. So, just in one year I have gone from knowing nothing about photography to be a self-taught professional photographer. Now I sell my photos to magazines and have been featured by some of the largest travel magazines out there.
Besides that I must say that my biggest success so far has been that I've found myself and my passion. Now I know what I want in life and who I really am and want to be.

FIV: My last question is. What is your biggest dream, what do you want to achieve in your life?

I want to raise awareness of animal rights. Far too many think of animals as lesser beings than humans, and that's something I want to change. My biggest dream is to open up big rescue and release centers for endangered animals
